ATTENTION
Mark your calendar: June 20th, 2009
7th Annual Heritage Day
Allenberry Resort Inn & Playhouse
Boiling Springs

Inside this issue:
PA Fly Fishing Museum Dinner/Banquet 1
PA Fly Fishing Heritage Day 1
Fall trout in the Poconos 2
The Anglers Club of Philadelphia 2
Tom Whittle, past president 3
Essential Saltwater Flies review 3

Pennsylvania Fly Fishing Museum Association
OFFICE:
Allenberry Resort Inn & Playhouse
Rt. 174, P.O.Box 7717-258-3211
Boiling Springs, PA  17065

FAIRFIELD HALL
PFFMA 1240 North Mountain Road
info@paflyfishing.org
17112 717-541-8004 (Fax)
1240 North Mountain Road
717-541-0622 (Voice)
717-541-0622 www.paflyfishing.org

ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP FORM:
All members will receive a membership card, the Museum’s newsletter, and special mailings.
Friend $25
Contributor $50
Sponsor $75
Sustainer $125
Benefactor $250

Make Checks Payable to and Mail to:

Pennsylvania Fly Fishing Heritage Day

This year’s Heritage Day event was a record breaker with more than 250 in attendance. The event was held again at the beautiful Allenberry Resort Inn & Playhouse in Boiling Springs, along the banks of the Yellow Breeches Creek. The day was filled to the brim with casting instructions, fly tiers, presentations, demonstrations, vendors, and exhibitors. The Rubber Fish Race down the Yellow Breeches was entertaining and the Grand Prize Winner received $500 cash! The new Casting Competition was a hit this year in all three categories: Youth, Amateur, and Open. Check out the information and photos from the 2008 Heritage Day on the PFFMA website.

Don’t miss out on next year’s festivities. The event promises to be even better than this year’s! So mark your calendars for June 20th (the Saturday of Father’s Day weekend).

2007 Dinner/Banquet

2008 Heritage Day

Ed Shenk, Tom Baltz and Don Holbrook display their artistic talents in fly tying at this year’s Heritage Day.

...To preserve and share America’s fly fishing heritage and the role of Pennsylvanians in this tradition.

Pennsylvania Fly Fishing Museum Association
HARRISBURG PA PERMIT NO. 483

The official registration and financial information of the Pennsylvania Fly Fishing Museum Association may be obtained from the Pennsylvania Department of State by calling toll-free, within PA, 1(800)732-0999. Registration does not imply endorsement.

10th Anniversary! - Annual Dinner & Action - October 4th
The 10th Annual Dinner & Auction is just around the corner and we are well underway with plans for an awesome event. Each year, the event continues to exceed the previous events, especially with the items being offered.
This year, to celebrate our 10th Anniversary, we will be honoring an important fly fishing legend, George Harvey. We lost George this year and we want to acknowledge the man and his important contributions. See the article in this issue for details about this tribute by our honored guest, Joe Humphreys.
We strive for items that are distinctive, unique, or rare that have appeal for everyone, angler or not. We will offer guided services for fishing and birding. Items include jewelry, artwork, handcrafted items, certificates for bed & breakfasts and restaurants, flyfishing paraphernalia, and much, much more.
For those who have not attended in the past, Allenberry Resort Inn and Playhouse in Boiling Springs is a superb venue for our event. The Beltzhoover Banquet room is beautiful and the Yellow Breeches Creek which runs through the Allenberry property, is only a short walk away from the event. The Carlisle, Harrisburg, Hershey areas are full of things to do. Go to www.visithhc.com for ideas to fill the weekend and beyond!
The evening will begin with a cocktail hour, scrumptious hors d'oeuvres, beautiful music by harpist Elizabeth Baseshore, and the opening of the silent auction. After an incredible full course meal prepared by the Allenberry chef, the silent auction will end and the live auction will begin as the grand finale of the evening.
For all attendees, you will receive a Commemorative Fly to thank you for your support. This year, the featured fly is the Comparadun created by Al Caucci from the Delaware Valley. An article in this newsletter provides more details about this timeless design.
For those who have attended in the past, we thank you for your support of this event, our most important fundraising event of the year. We will have many new items to offer and the same great atmosphere of fun and friendship.
We hope to see you on Saturday, October 4th!
Use the enclosed form to register for the event or wait for the formal invitations to be mailed. Better yet…use our secure on-line registration available at www.paflyfishing.org.
Registration must be received before Wednesday, October 1st.

Thank you!
FALL TROUT IN THE POCONOS

Don’t put away your trout rod just yet. Fishing the streams of the Pocono Mountains in northeastern Pennsylvania for more than 50 years has taught me that just about the time the leaves start to come down in the mountains, the fishing starts to pick up. September and October, and even early November, depending on weather conditions, can be like a whole new season. Cooler water temperatures and improved flow levels, both harbinger of the coming winter, make this a delightful time to be on the stream. You are also likely to encounter fewer anglers on the water now that at any time in the previous six months. Choice of imitations is simpler now, too, the classic early season hatches are largely history by September. I rely heavily on terrestrials, especially ants, grasshoppers, and beetles. Favorite mayfly patterns are sulphurs and olives (both in sizes 14-20), tricos (20-24), occasionally isonychias (12). Some gray and brown caddis flies (14-18) complete a basic assortment of flies. Add a few Pheasant Tail, Prince, and Hare’s Ear nymphs, and you are in business. Oh, and a few Muddlers or other streamers might come in handy. A seven and a half or eight-foot rod that throws a three or four-weight line is ideal. And be prepared to fish clear water with fine tippets. Falling leaves can sometimes be a nuisance for a period on any mountain stream, especially when wind causes them to litter the surface, but such conditions are temporary.

Don’t pine for the good old days. Anglers never had it so good. When I started fishing the Pocono streams in the 1950’s, “trout season” closed at the end of July. Now, many streams are open year round. Some of the better ones include: Big Bushkill, Tobyhanna, Brodheads, McMichael’s Creeks, and Lehigh River all in Monroe County; Mud Run, Hickory Run, and Pohopoco Creek in Carbon County; Buttermilk, West Branch Wallenpaupack, and Dyberry Creeks in Wayne County; Dingman’s Creek and Tom’s Creek in Pike County. All these are open to fall angling and most are scheduled to receive stockings at the beginning of October. Note that the PA Fish and Boat Commission has imposed “catch-and-release” or “delayed harvest” regulations on several of these streams. Consult the PFBC website for specifics, then go out and have some fun.

Article and photos by, Ed Jaworowski, Director, PFFMA

The Anglers Club of Philadelphia

It was 1946 when a group of dedicated salmon anglers met at the Philadelphia Racquet Club and began what was then called the Salmon Anglers of Philadelphia. Limited to 100 members, it quickly caught on. In 1947, the first year’s guest speaker, Lee Wulff, drew a full house. Three years later, the POCO fishers were heard and at a fall meeting in 1950, the board decided that Salmon was a once a year pursuit while trout were much closer to find and could be fished more often and by more anglers. The club was re-named The Anglers Club of Philadelphia, still limited to 100 gentlemen members, but it was not long before the numbers swelled and women were welcomed. The first woman president (Eleanor Winson) was elected in 1987.

The club continues to be strictly a fun social group with an annual dinner meeting and 3 or 4 luncheons. Past guest speakers include the who’s who of fly fishing among them were Ernest Schiebert, Paul Jorgenson, Lefty Kreh, Bob Clouser, Barry and Cathy Beck and the many more...

When Ed Jaworowski first mentioned to me that he was writing a new book on saltwater flies, with detailed tying instructions and recommended uses, I immediately ordered one. I received my book in the spring of 2008. This gave me plenty of time to study it and tie flies that I would need for a fall trip to the Florida Keys. Although familiar with trout and bass, my lack of knowledge about bonefish, permit, and baby tarpon presented me with new problems. Choosing tackle presented little difficulty, but selecting fly patterns and learning how to tie and use them was another story.

Essential Saltwater Flies, “with step by step tying instructions for 38 indispensable designs and their useful variations”, was extremely valuable to me. Just to know that I am tying flies developed and recommended by some of the most recognized icons in fly fishing today assures me of the confidence I need to venture into saltwater fly fishing from the New England coast to the Florida Keys.

The author has filled a void in fly tying literature, and has presented a choice compendium of the most basic patterns, culled from the many thousands available, along with variations on theme designs. More than 500 crisp step-by-step color photos accompany the concise text. Chapters include: “Materials and Tools”, “Tying Techniques and Tips”, including a section on tying various types of weed guards, “Baitfish Imitations”, containing most of the important standards and guards, “In/Out Fly drifts”, “Bonefish Flies”, “Tarpon Flies”, plus a section on recommended fishing knots for attaching flies to hooks. Essential Saltwater Flies is the one and two hand retrievers.

Ed Jaworowski, Director, PFFMA

10TH ANNUAL PENNSYLVANIA FLY FISHING DINNER & AUCTION - REGISTRATION FORM

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Number of Dinner &amp; Auction tickets:</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Member: @ $50 = $</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Member Couple: @ $90 = $</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Non-Member: @ $55 = $</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Non-Member Couple: @ $100 = $</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total $</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

(Mailing Label will indicate membership status.)

Make Checks Payable and Mail to:
PFFMA, 1240 North Mountain Road, Harrisburg, PA 17112

Must be received by October 1.
Registration is also available online at www.paflyfishing.org
Please provide the names for all attendees for name tags.